Topic: Game Store

This topic is going to be about a gamestore that just suggest videogames depending on the type of games you like. It will have genres and show games that people may have not seen before. I chose this as my topic because I am a gamer and I have played many games that people have never heard of before and I could give great suggestions. These page names below will have the about us, genres which will be a page that has boxes and each box is a genre with an image to give an idea of the genre and when you click on it, it will show only games in that genre. Deals which would show games that are on sales on other websites and leads the user to those websites. Browse games which just loads games randomly everytime you press it to browse game. Developer logs is a page where is shows random games but with the logs from the developers to show the updates for the game to make sure you decide if you want the game.(Might be able to put this in browse games, but usually developer logs are overlooked unless its right in your face)

Page names:
- About us
- Genres
- Deals
- Browse games
- Developer Logs

The data I will be storing is prices of the games since there will be a deals page, I will also store data of devlogs by trying to make it update automatically with the updates the developers do to their games, obviously users so they can login, and etc.(Still thinking I have questions about it so I will ask in class)